1. Only Nineteen.

(Patrick O’Callaghan)
(Playwright and Director)

The effects of war occur in many different ways. Peter lost two mates in Vietnam. Decades later he still carries the burden. And now land developers are moving in on his peaceful bush retreat.

I like it when audiences become involved with the characters and I hope that will happen with this play. I am extremely grateful to my cast, particularly Tori and Tracey who have backed up again after the season of Prepare to Meet Thy Tomb, Matt and Talon who have been rehearsing two plays at once, and the other young men who have brilliantly taken on the vital roles that link the whole story together.

Cast
Pete-Pat O Callaghan
Marie-Tori Fetzer
Dani-Tracey Simpson
Constable Steve Paulson-Matthew King
Young Men-Jordan Birch
Nathan Aladdin
Talon Chorlton

2. Politically Correct.

(By Jennifer Marie Sancho)
(Director: Trisha Bromley)

Four Inmates of an asylum rebel. Jane Austen, Florence Nightingale, Margaret Thatcher and Emmeline Pankhurst must work together to find a plan to escape their incarceration,

I became aware of this play several years ago and decided one day I would direct it. My cast of five have been a pleasure to work with. Trusting our audiences will enjoy this play as much as we all have done so putting it together.

Cast
Orderly- Matthew King
Florence Nightingale- Leown Russell
Jane Austen - Evelyn Fetzer
Margaret Thatcher- Samantha Sutherland
Emmeline Pankhurst- Mary Walker

3. The Biggest Disappointment.

(Cheney Hossack Playwright and Director)

This is a story about staying true to who you are. Whether that means not giving up the fight for something you believe in, being your incredible individual self when people are trying to make you someone different, or finding a way to stop people pleasing attitudes you’ve had your whole life.

I make a playlist for every production I’m a part of and my Biggest Disappointment playlist includes songs like ‘The Only Heartbreaker’ by Mitski, ‘Night Shift’ by Lucy Dacus, ‘Landslide’ by Fleetwood Mac and, of course, ‘The Biggest Disappointment’ by Slim Dusty.

I am so grateful to Act1 Theatre and to my brilliant cast for taking a chance and agreeing to be a part of my first show as a writer and as a director. I hope that I’ll have the opportunity to make many more shows (and I hope I gain some fans tonight)

Cast
Sophie- Eleanor List
Lily - Lauren Bull
Rebecca- Sheryl Salmon
Tom - Talon Chorlton

4. A Marriage Has Been Arranged.

By Alfred Sutro, Director: Elizabeth Womack

A Marriage Has Been Arranged by Alfred Sutro (1863-1933) was first performed in 1904, during the reign of Edward VII, at the Garrick Theatre in London. The play is set in the conservatory at No. 300 Grosvenor Square in London, close to midnight, while a ball is in progress. According to the title of the play, a marriage has been arranged, but has it? “As the director of A Marriage Has Been Arranged, it has been wonderful working collaboratively with Barry and Annalisa as they both have such amazing natural talent and commitment.

Cast
Mr Harrison Crockstead- Barry Haworth
Lady Aline De Vaux - Annalisa Nalave

Stage Manager:- Deb Hossack
Light & Sound:- Andrew Munslow & Mark Whitmore.

Thank you to all our front of house staff who make a visit to our little Theatre such a memorable experience.
